Fiji Airways to expand Adelaide service

Fiji Airways has announced it will expand its Adelaide-Nadi service from two to three flights per week from April 2025.

The flights will depart Adelaide on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays and will continue to utilise the 170 seat B737 Max 8 aircraft, offering passengers premium comfort and amenities with modern interiors, reduced cabin noise, better lighting and more overhead cabin storage space.

Adelaide Airport Managing Director, Brenton Cox, welcomed the announcement and congratulated Fiji Airways for expanding the Adelaide service.

“The Fiji flights are fantastic for our market, both as a wonderful holiday destination and as a one-stop connection with the US west coast,” Mr Cox said.

“Flights will arrive in Adelaide late morning and depart shortly after midday, so it’s a family-friendly timeslot and avoids an overnight flight between the two cities.

“The flights also offer good connections via Nadi with the airline’s North American schedule, providing another option for South Australians heading to the US, and indeed US travellers heading to SA.”

South Australian Minister for Tourism, Zoe Bettison, said the additional Fiji Airways flight was a win for the state’s international market recovery.

“North America is a key international market for our state, so having another easy one-stop connection with Fiji Airways will make South Australia an even more enticing destination,” Minister Bettison said.

“South Australia’s international market is currently worth a record-high $1.3 billion to our visitor economy, and this momentum is set to continue thanks to the continued increase in international airline capacity.”

Managing Director and CEO of Fiji Airways, Andre Viljoen, said: “We are excited to grow our Adelaide-Nadi service, making it easier for South Australians to experience the beauty of Fiji and to provide enhanced connectivity throughout our network – including North America and the Pacific Islands.

“Whether guests are heading to Fiji or beyond, we aim to provide a comfortable, reliable journey and reinforce our role as a key link between Australia and the Pacific region.”

The service will depart Nadi every Monday, Thursday and Saturday at 7.30am and arrive in Adelaide at 11.35am. Flights depart Adelaide at 12.35pm and arrive in Nadi at 8.15pm.

Tickets can be purchased through the Fiji Airways website, www.fijiairways.com, or by calling the Fiji Airways Global Reservations Centre.
